DEDHAM, Mass., June 9.—The scales of justice were balanced today.

A vengeful community began cooling off.

The Millen brothers—Murton and Irving—with Abe Faber, got it. A hard-jawed set of jurors found the trio of young machine-gunners guilty of murder in the first degree.

Electric Chair Awaits
Around the corner of the law awaits the electric chair and a triple execution.

Forbes McLeod, young, handsome patrolman, mowed down in a Niagara of machine-gun pellets, stood avenged—legally. But—"It doesn't alter anything. My son is dead and nothing will bring him back."

That's what Mrs. Isabelle McLeod, the mother, said, as she heard the verdict shortly after midnight.

Heard the cheers from the crowd outside the court house, heard the judge commend the jury, heard the moans of the families of the defendants.

The swashbuckling Millen brothers and the college-bred Faber were dragged on their shackles through the mob surrounding the court house. The cheers turned to howls; the howls turned to booms.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Large numbers of graduates of Westminster college through the last half century are gathering at New Wilmington today for the annual alumni day proceedings in connection with commencement week.

The picturesque May Day ceremony will take place on the college campus this evening, as a concluding feature of the day's program. Commencement day at Westminster occurs Monday.

Autoists tell PA News that the state highway department has accomplished a good job on Moravia street where resurfacing has recently been completed. The thoroughfare is being travelled much more extensively as a result of the improvement.

One of the sections of street that is much travelled in this city, in need of resurfacing or repaving, is that on Highland avenue between Grant and Wallace avenues. The hill is exceedingly rough.

The shower which was experienced in the city about 3 o'clock this morning was purely local in its character. The rain gauge at the U. S. Weather Observation station at the New Castle Water Works showed only a hundredth of an inch of precipitation. The shower in town amounted to around a tenth of an inch.

Rare Tree Is Found Out In Gunton Park

Hidden away in the middle of the park, growing on a bank alongside a small stream, an unusual tree has been found in Gunton park, a specimen of the big leaved magnolia. The find has excited the interest of Frank E. Patterson, landscape architect for the RWD, and of J. E. Oesterling, foreman in charge of tree trimming in the park.

The big leaved magnolia is not native to this section of the country, nor can anyone be found who knows where this tree came from. Apparently it was started about 32 years ago, and several years ago had been cut off close to the ground by some vandal.

"Sports" or second growth shoots started from the base of the tree and today they are about 12 feet high.

Hope To Preserve It.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—M.

Harvey Taylor, president of the Dauphin county board of commissioners, was elevated to the leadership of the Republican party in Pennsylvania today.

In an enthusiastic manifestation at party harmony Taylor was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican state committee, convened in biennial session here.

Thus the veteran, Dauphin county leader was accorded the honor of leading his party into the forthcoming battle with Democrats in the November general election.

Succeeds Martin
Choice of Taylor as the new chairman was assured hours before the retiring chairman, Gen. Edward S. Martin, called today biennial convention to order. Every element of the party was behind the 58 year-old Harrisburg's selection.

Taylor's name was placed in nomination a few minutes after the meeting opened.

John E. Snyder of Dauphin county, delivered a brief address in which he said of Taylor that "To name him is but to praise him."

The nomination was immediately seconded by Edwin R. Cox president of the Philadelphia council and newly chosen chairman of the Republican city committee here.

Thereupon, Martin asked for other nominations. There were none. One of the state committee members moved that nominations be closed and Taylor was immediately elected without opposition amid roaring cheers and thunderous applause.

The convention then proceeded to the election of the other committee officers.

Field Crops In State Suffering From Hot Spell

Crops In All Sections Of State Are Hard Hit By Long Severe Drought

FROST DAMAGES
CROP OF FRUIT

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 9.—Field

crops in all sections of Pennsylvania except the southeastern, are suffering from one of the worst spring droughts in history, according to the monthly report of the federal-state crop reporting service today.

Late frosts further decreased fruit crop prospects, according to the report.

In the southeastern counties the condition of winter wheat on June 1 was 85 per cent normal as compared with 88 per cent normal a month ago, the report stated.

Hardest hit was the north central section where the crop condition on June 1 was 48 per cent normal and crop growth in that section was at a standstill.

One month of extremely dry weather slashed the estimated winter wheat crop in the state by nearly 1,300,000 bushels, the reports stated indicating that Pennsylvania fields will yield only $14,654,000 bushels instead of the estimated 15,947,000 a month a year ago. The five-year average crop is 17,205,000 bushels.

The state's peach crop was even more adversely affected. The estimated yield on June 1 was 468,000 bushels as compared with a five-year average crop of 1,708,000 bushels. Late frosts during May in the northern tier counties despite the unseasonable hot weather caused all fruit crops to suffer, the report said. The apple crop was only 50 per cent of normal.

Mid-West Dry Areas Get More Rainfall

CHICAGO, June 9.—An eastward-moving low pressure area today brought appreciable rains to parched, drought ridden farming areas of northern Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Indiana.

The thundershowers that brought much needed rains to the drooping crops reached deluge proportions at some points, particularly in northern Illinois, where weather forecasters said the precipitation was more than had fallen in any day since the half inch rain of March 26.

Benefit to the parched crops was appreciable over a wide area, government meteorologists said.

Temperatures that climbed well into the 90's yesterday in the corn belt declined rapidly as the storm spread cooling showers across the plains. A 30 degree drop from 93 was registered here.

The drought emergency still exists, however, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace warned at St. Paul.

Report President Will Offer Substitute Plan For Wagner Labor Bill

WASHINGTON, June 9.—President Roosevelt has decided to abandon the present highly controversial Wagner labor dispute bill in favor of a simple measure, authorizing him to create a federal industrial conciliation commissions to settle labor troubles, International News Service learned today on high authority.

The new measure will be sent to congress by the first of next week. Its prompt enactment was predicted, since it would terminate the long controversy over the original Wagner bill.

The proposed new commissions would be modeled after the industrial relations boards, created under NRA codes for the cotton textile, automobile and soft coal industries. The existing boards however have only a sort of voluntary status, whereas the president's proposal would be mandatory.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 9.—In a frankly belligerent mood, eighteen tri-state steel union leaders met with Recovery Administrator Johnson today after warning that the general steel strike will be called next week unless the right of "pure recognition" for collective bargaining purposes is granted.

Rank And File Resentful
This challenge was hurled by the rank-and-file faction of the union as the outgrowth of resentment engendered by Johnson's radio address last night in which, after sharply rapping "immature leaders" of the labor element, he interpolated the blunt-spoken observation that "I have worn enough skin off the part of me that fits into the saddle . . . to make a half dozen such critics as they."

Still smarting under this rebuke, the union leaders marched down the marble corridors of the commerce building to Johnson's office, pausing only long enough to inform reporters they were prepared to seek "pure recognition of the right of collective bargaining."

Against Johnson's Efforts
Both their attitude and their words indicated repudiation of Johnson's conciliation efforts, accepted by the American Steel and Iron Institute, calling for creation of a presidential board of three to supervise collective bargaining and see to it that

So the lady said I will wash the bus, for there seems little chance of rain, so I'll get the hose and the car and a sponge and park the car near the drain. And she washed the car till it shone like glass, and the sky seemed still to be dry, but it wasn't long till the rain came down and now I am wondering why. And I'm also wondering if a wash would bring us rain when we wish, for it rained today and it's seventy-four, and this weather is just our dish.

POLICE BELIEVE SHARON CHILD IS STILL ALIVE

Family Fears Girl Is Drowned

Week Old Mystery Of Girl's Disappearance At Sharon Is Unsolved

FATHER RETURNS TO AID SEARCH

(International News Service) SHARON, Pa., June 9.—Baffled but determined to solve the clueless riddle thrust upon them by the disappearance of four-year-old Leah Minerva Dilley, police here today reiterated the belief that the child, missing since last Sunday, was still alive.

Despite the release of George Dilley, 42, mill-worker father of the missing girl, and 10 other children, from the Allegheny county workhouse yesterday, the Dilley household was a dwelling place of despondency.

Fear Girl Is Dead

Both grieving parents, surrounded by the sisters and brothers of Leah Minerva, said they had abandoned hope of ever again seeing the child. "She has not been seen since she skipped from the Dilley home last Sunday afternoon to join her playmates. "I am convinced, although I have no facts to go on, that her body is in the river," Dilley, freed from a 30-day sentence for mistreatment of his wife, declared.

The tall, raw-boned father of the child was sent home from the workhouse yesterday so that he might aid in the search and add some comfort and assurance to his bewildered family.

Police Scout Theory

Police Chief Charles Steger scouted the theory that the Dilley girl had been drowned in the Shenango river. He pointed out that countless fathers who had been frequent visitors to the stream in recent days would have discovered the body, if the police and volunteer searchers had not.

He favored and pursued the theory that the child had been picked up by someone and was being held in some home. No reward had been forthcoming for his efforts, however, as yet.

PRESIDENT ASKS $525,000,000 FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

money, under the president's plan, will go to provide direct aid to sufferers. This type of relief will involve special work programs for farmers in the drought stricken sections, and where the need is great, outright contributions. Mr. Roosevelt allocated $125,000,000 of the $525,000,000 requested, for this phase of the relief program.

The president specifically outlined tentative plans for the seven line attack.

President's Message

Washington, June 9.—Text of President's drought relief message to congress follows:

"To the congress of the United States: "Unforeseen drought has visited disaster upon a large part of our country. Prompt and vigorous action to meet the emergency has been taken by the federal government through its various agencies. But the situation has become more grave as rainfall shortage has continued. Future rainfall cannot restore more than a small part of the damage to crops and livestock. An especially serious problem has developed because, while there is no prospect of shortage of human food, a shortage of animal feed threatens over a wide area. This is causing losses to farmers and regions dependent upon the livestock industries. Large scale assistance by the federal government is necessary to protect people in the stricken regions from suffering, to move feed to livestock, and livestock to feed, and to acquire and process surplus cattle to provide meat for relief distribution.

"Organizations already exist in the department of agriculture, the federal emergency relief administration and the farm credit administration to carry on the emergency program.

"To finance operations of the magnitude planned, further funds are needed. After a conference with members of congress from the affected regions, a program along seven lines has been devised to meet the situation. These proposals and the funds required are estimated at this time as:

"1. $125,000,000 for special work program and human relief.

"2. $75,000,000 for livestock purchase in addition to the funds already available under the Jones-Connally act.

"3. $100,000,000 for shipping, processing and relief distribution of purchased cattle.

"4. $100,000,000 for loans to farmers to finance emergency feed purchases and shipments.

"5. $50,000,000 for emergency acquisition of submarginal farms and assistance in re-locating destitute farm families.

"6. $50,000,000 for work camps to afford employment in the drought area for young men principally from cities and towns.

"7. $25,000,000 for purchase of seed for 1935 plantings, and for loans to get seeds into farmers' hands.

"These wholly tentative estimates have been made upon the basis of present and probable conditions. I believe the present emergency can be effectively met by the appropriation of $525,000,000. Only such portion, of course, will be used as becomes absolutely necessary. We are dealing with a rapidly changing problem, and it is important that the authorization should be flexible so that funds can be allotted to the several federal agencies as required.

JOHNSON MEETS UNION LEADERS

labor is given its legal right to organize and bargain through unions. Regardless of their attitude, Johnson made it plain he would neither argue nor negotiate with the labor group, but would simply outline the plan's provisions to the union leaders, leaving the onus of a steel strike in the leaders' hands. It was believed, however, that some effort would be made to soften the outspoken resentment of the leaders of Johnson's speech.

In addition to Johnson, the administration was represented by Edward McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, and James Dewey, labor department counselor.

See Union Split

Meanwhile, a widening of the split between Michael Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, and the rank and file committee of that organization added to the seriousness of the situation.

Johnson's remarks were not considered solely responsible for the advance refusal of the rank and file to accept the compromise.

The leaders had declared the plan was unacceptable in its present form shortly after it became known yesterday. One of them told an NRA official it "insults our intelligence."

However, the caustic nature of Johnson's remarks caused the tumultuous rank and file to lose their tempers altogether.

Bank Guaranty Agreement Is Held Victory

Sponsors Of Aid For Depositors Of Closed Banks Are Well Pleased

RFC AUTHORIZED TO LOAN MILLIONS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, June 9.—The senate house conference agreement on the bank guaranty bill today is a "great victory" for sponsors of aid for depositors in closed banks, Rep. Clarence J. McLeod (R) of Michigan, leaders in the depositors' pay-off movement, said today.

While the amendment, which provides for aid through the RFC, does not achieve the full purpose of his 100 per cent pay-off bill, it makes possible "unfreezing" of hundreds of millions of deposits in closed banks, he said.

McLeod said this would avoid the sacrifice of assets by forcing their sale at bargain prices.

Authority For Loans

"As the bill comes from conference it gives the RFC, which has a billion and a half surplus authority either to purchase or to make a loan on reasonable security," said McLeod.

"Since the bill specifically sets forth the intention of the congress that the security be appraised in a most liberal manner its enactment should mean the distribution to depositors in closed banks of hundreds of millions of dollars more than would have been distributed if the fight for the depositors had not been started last February."

Final action on the conference report is expected Monday.

posed legislation would give the commissions a legal status.

The president's "change of heart" probably will hasten adjournment of congress. There will be little or no opposition to the suggested legislation, Republican leaders said, while the original Wagner bill was certain to provoke prolonged debate. The Wagner bill would have given employees a federal right to organize unions of their own choice and made it an "unfair practice" for employers to interfere with that right.

Steel Conflict Near Showdown

(BULLETIN) (International News Service) HARRISBURG, June 9.—Pledged to a harmony program developed at last minutes conferences, Pennsylvania Democrats convened their state committee meeting here today to elect David L. Swensen, Allegheny county chairman, the new state chairman.

Auto Thieves Held By Police

John Himebaugh, 16, Of Logansport, Ind., Has Right Ear Ripped Off

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, June 9.—Objecting to a receiver's fee of $22,426.24 as "more than reasonable," 13 creditors of the Conneaut Lake Company filed exceptions in federal court today to the first account of R. J. MacDonald, receiver of the lake resort operating company.

Three other creditors filed exceptions earlier in the week protesting the general vagueness and alleged weaknesses in the receiver's first accounting since 1929.

Filed in federal court here May 25, MacDonald's report listed receiver's expenditures of $39,928.64 for the "preservation, care and protection" of real estate and property held by the company. In addition to paying the receiver's compensation of $22,426.24 allowed by MacDonald, the exceptants objected to the diverting of money from the operating fund for payment of real estate "protection" expenses without first paying operation expenses.

Among the protesting creditors was the Fellows Club Fire Department of Conneautville.

Fire Destroys Second "Spite Tower" Erected Near Harrisburg Airport

Bestek, who faces trial in the York county court on a nuisance charge preferred by the state, seemed undisturbed about the tower's destruction. It was not known whether the watchman he employed to guard the second tower was on duty this morning.

NEW REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN

IF SOME of the so-called Progressives in Washington are not satisfied with the selection of Henry P. Fletcher as chairman of the Republican National Committee, they must be hard to please, for he is no "reactionary," is not of the Old Guard, but a thorough-going American citizen with a liberal mind, asserts the Inquirer of Philadelphia, leading Republican newspaper of the state of Pennsylvania.

If they say of him that he was a friend of President Hoover, the answer is, why shouldn't he have been? Was he not also the friend of other presidents? For he has served under six of them in all. There was Theodore Roosevelt, with whom he fought as a Rough Rider and whom he supported in later years as a Bull Moose. From the Rough Riders in Cuba he went to the Philippines to help put down the Aguinaldo insurrection.

It was Theodore Roosevelt who, in 1902, started him on his diplomatic career as Second Secretary of Legation to Havana, subsequently sending him to Portugal and then as First Secretary to Shanghai. Taft made him Minister to Chile, and Wilson, instead of deposing him because of his Republicanism, transferred him to Mexico as Ambassador. Those were troublous times in Mexico and he was the man best fitted to handle the difficult situation.

After the World War he resigned, but Harding induced him to take the office of Under Secretary of State. Under Coolidge he held the Ambassadorship to Belgium and from there went to Rome. Hoover induced him to remain for a year before resigning, and then drafted him, in 1930, as chairman of the Tariff Commission, an office which he filled with conspicuous ability for a year before voluntarily retiring. He sat at the Washington Arms Limitation Conference and at the Pan-American Conference.

Mr. Fletcher is no factionalist. Senator Reed accurately states the situation when he says of him that "he owes his election to no group or faction within the party. He has been chosen solely because of his outstanding record and personal merit. I am convinced that with him as its leader the party will go forward to new successes and to renewed usefulness to the country."

Mr. Fletcher should be able to quiet dissensions and bring Republican thought into unison, for in his long experience with handling men and policies he has always found a way out of disturbing conditions.

The rapidly with which he went to Chicago to take command is reassuring and a pledge of prompt and intense activity.

A BELATED HONOR

We don't think anyone will protest the action of congress in honoring Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson for his courage in sinking the Merrimac during the war with Spain, but it seems a little strange that 36 years should have been permitted to elapse before this action was taken. The captain was elevated to the rank of a rear admiral with retired pay on the thirty-sixth anniversary of his exploit, which was carried out in an effort to blockade the Spanish fleet. The house completed congressional action by passing unanimously a senate bill.

It was the first official recognition of his act of heroism since Captain Hobson retired from the navy 30 years ago because of his health. The United States is noted for its slowness in honoring its heroes, such action frequently coming only after the death of the intended recipients.

Captain Hobson fortunately is very much alive and capable of enjoying that part of the honor residing in the $4,500 annual salary that the rank of rear admiral carries.

The country, we believe, will view the honor as having been worthily bestowed and will hope that the new rear admiral will have many years in which to enjoy it.

ENCOURAGING SIGN

It isn't often that you get a second edition of a world's fair—especially in this modern era, when a great exposition seems to start under greater handicaps than was the case a generation ago.

But the Century of Progress exposition, in Chicago, is now in its second season, and the record is a rather remarkable one.

It indicates, in the first place, that Chicago is putting on a pretty good sort of show for its visitors. If a large number of visitors were not expected, the fair would not reopen; and there wouldn't be a chance of getting them if those who went last summer hadn't made favorable reports.

Furthermore, it shows that the country is in better health financially than it was a couple of years ago. A lot of money is going to be spent at that fair this summer.

The mere fact that people have it to spend is a pretty good sign of returning prosperity.

AUTO DEATH RATE CUT

There is a lesson in the experience of Kansas City, Mo., with respect to traffic accidents that may be of benefit to other communities in dealing with this big problem.

During May a special drive was conducted to compel observance of traffic regulations. A checkup at the end of the month revealed that there had been only four motor deaths. This compared with 10 in each of the preceding months. There was a corresponding improvement in the number of non-fatal accidents.

The lesson is that vigorous enforcement of traffic regulations does tend to keep down accidents.

This is a lesson which many cities apparently have not learned. Where enforcement is lax, the accident rate is high. This has been demonstrated repeatedly. If motor deaths are to be reduced, traffic laws must be enforced.

Funny man! It takes one year to learn to talk and 50 years to learn to keep still.

WHAT THE WAITRESS THINKS

She is a waitress and she thinks anyone is fortunate who writes a column and is able to get his pet likes and dislikes off his chest. So she decided to get some of hers off HER chest and I pass them on to YOU.

"She says she doesn't like people who can't decide what to eat without looking at the menu for 15 minutes—"

"Who ask how everything is made, and if it is good—"

"Who always want just what is scratched off and don't hesitate to elaborate on the fact."

"Who yell 'waitress' or pound on the table or hit the glass with a spoon when they want something—"

"Who say they don't want anything more and then call you the moment you are busy with somebody else—"

"Who kick about the food after every morsel is eaten or who complain, but won't let you get them something else—"

"Who are cross and don't smile, or are too nice and insist on dating you over or taking you home. Or men who try to date you and then come in with their wives and act scared you'll speak to them—"

"Men who say fresh things and tell you you're too pretty to work."

She has noticed other things, too. "It is easier to wait on a dozen men than on one average woman."

"The more wellbred, refined and gracious people are, the more they are apt to tip... Most people who drink tea are fussy and hard to wait on... Otherwise, waiting on table is very pleasant as there are a lot of sweet, wonderful people. I guess the other kind just make life more interesting and make one appreciate the good ones more. I love to meet a real crab and see how long they can stay that way if you keep on smiling. It's fun to see them break down and be nice."

She is wise, that young woman. She knows what we are like but she likes us just the same. ... And, incidentally, I am that fellow who always wants what has been crossed out and there isn't any more.

YOU'RE NOT AS YOUNG AS YOU WERE

Mr. Middle-aged Man, be a bit careful how you start your favorite outdoor sport.

You may have been a rugged old machine in your younger days. You still have much of the old spirit, too much, if it is not controlled by good sense.

You derive much satisfaction from the fact that you are better preserved than most men at your age.

In some instances this may not be true, you merely take chances that are foolhardy for men of your physical strength.

But you feel good and are rarin' to go.

Instead of working up gradually to midsummer condition you want to start in at such a point.

It's a dangerous thing to do. More and more men passed middle life die unexpectedly of heart attacks while indulging in their favorite outdoor pastime.

And usually these men were believed to have been strong physically.

Something snaps with too great demand on it and there is another saddened home.

Be moderate and sane in your physical efforts.

THE PHOTOGRAPH

They smoothed the little lines of care
And took the crow's feet all away.
The marks of pain he'd not let bear.
They saw but would not let them stay.

They made his forehead smooth and fair,
His face a polished bit of clay.

For us he had that picture made
And though this photograph is fine
With perfect blend of light and shade
We miss each little tender line

Upon his face by suffering laid,
Through which his spirit used to shine.

He wanted us to think that he
Had come unscathed through pain and care.

He never wanted us to see
One sign of heartache or despair,
He chose this picture so that we Might always see him smiling there.

OPEN SEASON

A man on holiday had been told he would find splendid sport on the lower reaches of the creek and along the lagoons bordering the river, says an English paper.

Gun in hand he wandered for miles without getting a shot, and was crossing a bridge on the way back to the hotel in the late afternoon when he met a small freckled boy.

"Is there anything to shoot about here?" he asked.

The boy scowled thoughtfully and shook his head. Then his face brightened up.

"Here's the school master coming across the bridge now," he exclaimed.

In a recent nudist case before a Michigan court, the judge ruled that "human decency and natural self respect" required that the person customarily be kept covered in the presence of others. That puts a nudist colony on the bum and those who want to go with as few clothes as possible will have to refrain from joining a nudist colony to attract the law.

The Hints and Dints man has lived a long time and has heard about the seventeen year locusts during his whole life. We have joked and kidded about them because we have never seen more than one or two of them at the same time. We have been cured. A few days ago we were on a farm and there must have been millions of locusts on the trees and they were making a noise that sounded like a thousand saw filers working at one time. We have come to the conclusion that the 17-year locusts are no joke.

GIRLS WANT TO BE WIVES
Of course, it has always been the desire of most young girls to become the happy bride of some handsome man. But they have not always been so frank to admit it. According to several of the deans of women of some of our well-known colleges the girl of today frankly admits she would like to get married.

While the old-fashioned girl secretly hoped that "some day you and I" she shyly declined to confess it—at least readily and openly. In the opinion of the lady deans the 1934 girl is more attractive, has less false modesty, is more serious-minded or sensible, and has a much saner attitude toward life's real values than her sister of even 10 years ago.

The World At A Glance

Will Planes Draw Peoples Closer?
Vast Areas Only Hours Apart Now
Added Cost Of The Drouth

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Near the Cleveland garden, in which this writer has been hearing all sorts of comments on affairs in general, is the municipal airport.

A plane every hour takes one to New York in three hours, another to Chicago in two and a half hours. The planes are geared up to three miles a minute.

The question arises in the garden whether, in a few years, planes will be departing for Europe, even the Orient?

Of so, will the world be made over? Once we are drawn closer to people does prejudice cease?

Should we find the English, the Germans, the Spaniards, the Japanese much like ourselves? Speakers have a habit of saying that speedy communication draws people closer. But, when they are next-door neighbors, like France and Germany, doesn't it rather make them suspicious and turbulent?

Yet to know a man thoroughly is to wipe out, usually, our dislike. Thus, the 300-mile-an-hour airplane may become a great civilizer. Vast areas now are only hours apart.

President Roosevelt said on Memorial day, you will recall, that if communications had drawn the north and the south closer in pre-Civil War days there probably never would have been a Civil War.

DROUTH COSTS
Not all the drouth costs can be reckoned by parched crops, one learns from conversation in the garden. The Great Lakes are the lowest in modern times. Ships must carry lighter cargoes. That means a great loss.

The same is true of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. There, barges must "draw less."

A WORKER'S PROBLEM
In the garden a discussion of the worker's problem is inevitable.

Suppose a man does not desire to strike? Suppose, however, that other men, men he has known for years, tell him that unless all men stand together now, all workers, their standards of living, their security, the existence of their children, will be imperiled? Then, what?

There are more employers of men than employees in this garden.

Yes, organization seems inevitable, they agree. But, more, some sort of organization, too, that will eliminate death-dealing competition, some sort of regulation that will not be a monopoly.

Otherwise, patchwork peace will continue (or won't continue) and the vicious cycle that whirls all groups around will increase in intensity—and bitterness.

Folk in the garden see no solution in a motor car peace or a steel peace.

Fundamental ills remain. Isn't the Roosevelt administration strong enough to strike sharply, boldly at the roots—as a surgeon does?

One can't say far away in this garden. Perhaps the doctors disagree. The world has progressed hitherto by no plan, but by turmoil and misery.

WHAT IS WRONG?
What is wrong with the recovery act? This writer has been asked that often. In turn he has asked many persons.

Men with the responsibilities of large businesses frankly say they believe that the president is a "disturber."

The majority of persons, however, and that includes persons who are not workers, believe that failure lies not in the recovery act, but in the lack of clean-cut administration; not in bold measures, but in the lack of clear-cut, bold measures.

Business would be better if the government would state its objectives in a frank manner. And labor "unrest," too, would cease to a large extent if a straightforward conference to decide on a "magna carta" for labor would be held and the New Deal written into law.

Neither business nor men know where they stand. As it is, congress has been acting much like a bad boy—destroying all sense of impartiality (and hope) by listening to this influence or that. The default of the Roosevelt leadership in congress has been a shock to the nation, one seen plainly. Recovery depends on a planned order—not on log-rolling, rolling days.

With that we leave the garden and its group of folk for New York, and actual news of a larger horizon.

SUNDAY
Memorable Days—June 10, 1732—Benjamin Franklin, 46, persistent experimenter, showed by his famous kite experiment that the lightning produced in the clouds is a form of electricity.

June 10, 1801—Tripoli declared war on the United States. As usual, the United States was unprepared for war. The navy had just been reduced for economy.

The U. S. did not settle its troubles with the Barbary States, who destroyed shipping in the Mediterranean and exacted tribute from this country, until after the war of 1812 with Great Britain had compelled us to build up a fleet. When this was sent in 1815 to Algiers, it quickly ended the piracy, the tributes, the contempt for the American flag.

June 10, 1842—Captain Charles Wilkes, commander of the most remarkable expedition ever undertaken by the navy, returned to New York to find himself under arrest. One of the charges against him was falsely reporting the discovery of an Antarctic continent! The navy department didn't believe there was any land there, but there was, and Wilkes was the discoverer. But he was dead before this was proven by others.

With two sloops-of-war a brig, a store-ship and two tenders, Wilkes sailed around the world, exploring South American coasts, the western coast of the United States, Hawaii and South Sea Islands and visiting as a good will ambassador Australia, the Orient and South Africa. His report of new things learned about the geography, climate, languages, customs, minerals, plants, animals and possibilities of the territories he explored.

He didn't sell any testimonials for cigarettes or breakfast food, or make any lectures, or set himself up as a hero. The navy didn't make him a rear admiral, it gave him a court-martial. Principal charge: he made his men work too hard.

June 10, 1869—Wyoming granted women suffrage, 50 years ahead of the nation. The "uncivilized" who did the civil thing before the "civilized" east, for other western states also granted women equal rights before any eastern state took the step.

June 10, 1889—United Confederate Veterans was formed at New Orleans and Gen. John B. Gordon, governor of Georgia, was elected first commander-in-chief. As in the case of the Grand Army of the Republic, it had been preceded by various state and regimental organizations. This week, at Chattanooga, the U. C. V. held what may be the

Two Negroes Are Hanged By Mob

Mississippi Mob Takes Two Negro Attackers Away From Three Officers

TRIED TO ATTACK YOUNG WHITE WOMAN

(International News Service) GREENWOOD, Miss., June 9.—Two negroes accused of an attempted attack on a white woman lay dead today, the victims of a determined mob of lynchers who seized the pair from officers and hanged them from a railroad trestle.

The pair, Isaac Thomas and Joe Love, both 25 years old, were said by officers to have confessed an attempted attack on the 18-year-old wife of a Delta plantation manager at Sledge, Miss.

Twice the mob attempted to take the two prisoners from Sheriff W. T. Haynes of Quitman county and two deputies. On the second occasion they were successful.

Near Cleveland, Miss., the mob last night descended on the three officers as they were escorting the pair to Clarksdale for safe keeping. Disarming the sheriff and his deputies, the crowd forced the officers to leave the scene.

Ropes were quickly swung from an overhead railroad trestle and the two negroes were strung up within a few minutes after their seizure.

Plan Funeral For Dorothy Dell

Sad Home-Coming At Hattiesburg, Miss., As Result Of Accident At Hollywood

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—Eight short months ago a slender, grey-eyed girl with beautiful blonde hair, and a figure which won her the title of "Miss Universe" in 1930 came to Hollywood.

For eight months she lived the life of which almost every girl today dreams—the life of a popular and successful star of the silver screen.

Today that beautiful, slender girl was being prepared for a trip back to the quiet little Mississippi town of Hattiesburg which gave her birth and whose people had planned a great homecoming for her.

That homecoming will be one of sadness, not of joy, for Dorothy Dell is going home not as she planned, full of life, laughter and happiness, but dead—the victim of an automobile accident which came with all the speed and tragedy of death on the silver screen.

Forty-eight short hours ago Dorothy Dell, who 30 days previous had jested about her death, lay in state, while discussing the death of Lew Cody, with whom she played in her last picture, and Lilyan Tashman, remarked:

"Gee, you know they say deaths go in cycles of three out here. First was Lilyan Tashman, then Lew Cody. I wonder who'll be next."

It may have been premonition.

"Stone Boy" Of Wilkes-Barre Goes To School Despite Condition

(International News Service) WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 9.—Benny Hendricks, the "stone boy" who became a national figure, his plight was made known, has not allowed his handicap to interfere with his education.

Benny, whose muscles are slowly ossifying into bone, has resumed his studies at school and despite the absence of several weeks while he was undergoing treatment at a hospital, has made enough progress to earn a promotion from the first grade, his teacher, Mary Karst, revealed today.

Benny, who is 9 years old, hobbles the blocks from his home in Edwardsburg to the school every day, a difficult task for him because his arms, legs and neck have already become hard as stone.

Members of the family reported that public interest in the boy's plight has subsided and that no longer do curious come to the Hendricks home to see him.

"They have made no plans for Benny's summer and he will likely remain at home."

In an opinion handed down by Judge R. M. Hildebrand in the case of W. L. Harris and the Ellwood City News Company, use of Jensen E. Harris against Ellwood Taxi Co., M. J. Kraus and T. J. Cain, question of law raised by the defendants is decided against the defendants, and they are given fifteen days in which to file a supplemental affidavit of defense. Krause and Cain were guarantors of the Ellwood Taxi Company and in the suit, filed against them, there was no cause of action against them as the plaintiff must first exhaust efforts to collect from the Taxi Company or aver its insolvency. Attorney W. W. Stevenson, secretary-treasurer of the local branch of the Federal Land Bank and Land Bank commissioners farm mortgage organization reports that a total of $87,200 in loans has been placed in Lawrence county. Of this amount farmers used $61,800 or approximately 83.8 per cent to refinance their indebtedness. In a number of instances indebtedness was scaled down.

Of the money used for refinancing about $18,400 repaid debts to banks $2,200 went for taxes, $200 debts to merchants and $65,900 to other creditors not separately classified, including private mortgage lenders.

A total of $5,400 of loans in the county was used for purposes other than the refinancing of borrower's debts. Of this sum $3,800 was used for the purchase of land and equipment, the construction and improvement of buildings, and for general agricultural purposes and the balance for the purchase of stock of national farm loan associations.

Throughout the United States approximately $675,000,000 of land bank and commissioners' loans were made from June 1, 1933 to May 1, 1934. Land bank loans carry an interest rate of 5 per cent but there is a reduction to 4 1/2 per cent until July 1938. The rate on commissioners' loans is 5 per cent.

$5 and the two who placed forfeits of $10 failed to appear for a hearing and the money was confiscated.

The "visitors" gave the names of Lewis DeRobbio, Tony Ross (not the former boxer), Tom Sheldon, William Goodman, Jodie Carter, Robert
Anderson, Ralph Cavelli, Andrew
Mathews, John Nyholt, Tom Worri-
son and Walter Wilson.

Some of them denied being "numbers" salesmen. However, all were fined.

A man named Bill Galos, who was arrested on Moravia street, also was fined. He had a "numbers" book in his possession. One man who it was said was about to buy a "number" was discharged as was a man who found a "numbers" book and had it in his possession when police saw him with the book.

Senator Reed To Address Veterans

Will Speak At State Convention Of United Spanish War
Vets Next Week

Senator David A. Reed will speak at Conneaut Lake park on Tuesday,
June 12, at the Temple of Music.
This is on the second day of the coming state convention of the Spanish-American War Veterans, which is to be held in the park June 10 to 14.

Tuesday, the day on which Senator Reed speaks in the temple, will also be All Veterans Day, starting with a big ox roast at 11 in the morning, and the mass meeting will be held in the temple at 2:30 in the afternoon. Other nationally known speakers will also be present and speak.

Let's see. If anybody hates and opposes the criminal, that stops crime. See kidnapping.

Cutting Down
On RWD Work

Appropriation Is Sharply
Reduced For County
During June

With the appropriation for June sharply reduced, the forces of the RWD have been correspondingly reduced. In May there were 705 employes on the RWD rolls. For June that number has been reduced to 490. The appropriation for the month is $23,100.

Under the system employed by the state authorities of the RWD money may be allocated but the local administrators are not permitted to spend the money or make commitments until it is actually received. In May the last piece of money, about $21,000 was not received until too late in the month to spend it, according to the RWD administrator's office.

Similar reductions have been made in other counties it is said and the work of the RWD sharply curtailed.
Whether there will be further reductions for the month of July is not known, but the reductions have been progressive for the past three months.

No Good Strike News.

New Hat For Women.

Young Men Are Needed.

Lady Astor Objects.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

JAMES KEELLEY, of Chicago, a good newspaperman, died yesterday and will be buried today. He was an able, hard working newspaperman, who understood the value of real news, a man of character, energy and courage.

NO GOOD NEWS, about the proposed steel strike. Mike Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, goes to Washington to discuss the strike with General Johnson.

Big companies say they will not recognize unions, or put their plants under union control. Union men say 350,000 men will go out if the union is not recognized.

News headlines say "the strike is up to the President." They do not say how he can compel 350,000 men to continue working or compel owners of steel works to recognize unions and submit to union rule.

THE PRESIDENT yesterday was busy on a message to Congress, expected to outline his hopes for "social legislation," unemployment insurance, conservation and use of the national resources, etc. The President will probably ask Congress for five hundred and twenty-five millions from the drought, and urge again passage of the Wagner Labor Board bill, necessary in details with the threatened steel strike.

IT IS suggested that if the strike occurs the President will keep Congress in session "to enact legislation to deal with it."

It would be better for the country to deal with an important, dangerous strike through Congress rather than by the mere sending of troops, with orders to shoot. Shooting is easily started, not always easily stopped.

WOMEN WILL want to know that there is a new kind of hat, brought to this country by Countess Gradenigo, wife of the Italian consul at Cleveland. She wore it off the boat yesterday, a hat in the "Watteau style," looking like a shallow soup plate, made of straw, tilted over the right eye, fastened on by a velvet band worn around the head, a bow ribbon at the back of the hat.

Such a hat makes you "look different" and that is what woman wants, although WHY she should want to look different from her mother eve, sitting in the garden before the snake came wiggling, is an eternal problem. Nature made her beautiful and, forever, she strives to look queer.

FORMER PRESIDENT HOOVER, ex-officio and in fact head of the Republican party, congratulating Mr. Fletcher, new head of the Republican National Committee, wisely advises that "due representation be given to youth."

The old saying, "Young men think old men are fools; but old men know young men are fools," is out of date.

Young men are not as wise as old men, and the old are still needed for planning. The young are needed to get things done. Old age hesitates, wonders, waits, and opportunity goes by. The Republican party will need all the youthful energy, and youthful power to decide, it can get in the fight ahead of it.

EVEN IF Democracy's "new era" should prove a failure, Republicanism would have hard work answering the statement, "You were worse and you led up to this failure."

In the Sistine Chapel, Michel Angelo's picture of the Lord giving life to Adam with a touch of his finger shows Eve hidden away in the cloak of the Creator. There may be hidden away in the cloak of all-creating time a new political party that will surprise Democracy as much as it will surprise Republicanism.

LADY ASTOR protests in the British House of Commons against a proposed statue in Regents Park to honor the late Anna Pavlova, Russian ballet dancer. Lady Astor says:

"No matter how beautiful she was, it is far-fetched to raise a memorial to a Russian dancer when so many women that have lived and died for their country have no monuments."

No member could think of anything to say, so nothing was said. Perhaps if Anna Pavlova had been as good a dancer as Taglioni, some honorable member would have said: "All geniuses deserve honor, and such dancing is genius."

ZARO AGHA, ancient Turk says he is 160 as he leaves a children's hospital in Istanbul—Constantinople to the majority of us.

The ancient abbot in the eastern pagan temple, who gave orders for his own burial alive because "he had lived long enough" was said to be 157 years old.

It is probably true, however, as affirmed by the late Prof. Shaler of Harvard, that there is no authentic instance of any human being having lived beyond the age of one hundred and ten. All above that is self-deception.

A SCHOOL BOY of fifteen fought with another boy of thirteen. The boy of thirteen is dead, following what prize fighters call "a straight right arm to the head." The country, horrified by such a killing, should not be surprised. A nation that glorifies prize fighters and legalizes prize fights for profit must expect fifteen-year-old boys to kill thirteen-year-old boys occasionally.

WASHINGTON REPORTS that NRA yesterday committed itself against price-fixing, except in clear-cut emergencies. In connection with this new step it "sharply modified all open-pricing arrangements adopted by coded industries."

This apparently means that producing concerns may not agree with each other as to price-fixing. If they are compelled to accept fixed prices and hours for labor, they will find it difficult to get along without price agreements.

Cruickshank And Sarazen Battle For Golf Title

Wee Scotchman And Italian Battle It Out For National Open Title

MANY HAVE CHANCE AT CHAMPIONSHIP

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

MERION, Pa., June 9.—Down the homestretch will come the pack of 64 in the last two rounds of this very dramatic national open golf championship today, with game, little sowed-off Bob Cruickshank three strokes in the lead at 142. Back in second place is Gene Sarazen, the toughest, roughest competitor any leader ever encountered. He is the greatest man in golf today on the last-minute rush, a man who apparently can call upon hidden reserves at a time when most competitors are wondering whether they can possibly last to the wire.

There are the pair of them, a little guy by the name of Cruickshank, who is so small that he looks like somebody playing out of a hole in the ground, and a black-eyed desperado who does not know the meaning of quit. There are others in the field. There are, as a matter of fact, Wiffy Cox in third place at 146 and a four-way tie between Horton Smith, Leo Diegel, Billy Burke and Rodney Bliss at 147.

Goodman Out
There is an unwritten law that no man, starting more than seven strokes behind the lead in the final two rounds, has even a fighting chance. If that is the case, Johnny Goodman, 1933 champion, is completely out of focus. Goodman had a 77 yesterday, which with his 76 the day before gave him two uninspired rounds, totaling 153. As for Lawson Little, recent winner of the British amateur championship, he came bounding back with a 72 yesterday but it was too late. His 83 of the day before left Mr. Little without a great deal in the way of rejoinder.

At 148 and, therefore, still having a fighting chance, were such as Henri Cluel, MacDonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood. Really, they had no actual chance. A total of 148 as against 142 is something one does not bet against, unless one is completely nonplussed and without the benefit of Mrs. Rorer's cookbook.

Many Have 149
There were a lot of possibilities grouped at 149, including Charley Lacey, Ky Laffoon, Jimmy Thompson, Willie Hunter, Johnny Revoita, and others. But the day has not come when a golfer in a national open championship can start seven strokes behind the lead and come on to win.

Three Teams Are Tied For First In National Loop

Radiators, St. Andrews And East Side Merchants Battle For Top Run

Three teams are tied for first place in the National softball league, the Radiators, St. Andrews and East Side Merchants. All three of the teams have won six and lost two games. The Ellwood City Millers and Spencers are also tied for second place.

E. S. MERCHANTS WIN
Last night at the Radiator Field the East Side Merchants topped the West Side Merchants 3 to 0 in a fast and well played game with Gresham holding the West Siders to three hits and whiffing nine men. Irwin also pitched good ball for the losers yielding only six hits and allowing seven men. Keder smacked a triple for the longest hit of the game.

THE GUMPS—A PLACE TO GO

Make Queries Of Chamber Of Commerce Daily

Many And Varied Are Answers To Problems Sought Of Local Body

THIS FORMS ONLY PART OF DUTIES

Can you give me the name of a good moderately priced European plan hotel in Atlantic City?

Where can I get a new motor for my washing machine?

What is the best hotel that is closest to the world's fair grounds in Chicago?

What is the population of Enid, Okla.?

Can you recommend a good man to represent us in your city?

What is the elevation of New Castle above sea level?

Can you give us the name of the city in which the Fairfax Foundry & Machine Co. plant is located?

These are just some of the varied questions which the office of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce is called upon, almost daily, to answer. They come from residents and business people of this city and elsewhere, indicating some of the many unique services which the Chamber of Commerce has the opportunity to render. And if the answer is not available in the voluminous files of the chamber, an effort is made to provide the requested information.

Not Bulk of Work. Such questions are comparatively easy to answer. But when a query comes in for information as to the number of pedestrians passing between Mill and Mercer streets on the north side of Washington on a typical Thursday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock, then it becomes more than mere routine. Such a question would probably come from a business house wishing to select a New Castle location. If such were found to be the case, the answer would be provided.

The answering of such queries, does not make up the bulk of the time of those administering the affairs of the community's organized clearing house of information. More time is spent in seeking out possible manufacturers to occupy idle plants, or in endeavoring to develop ways and means of assisting existing plants and business houses; in boosting payrolls, fighting destructive legislation or promoting favorable laws. To these ends, the Chamber of Commerce is constantly working for the betterment of everyone in New Castle, whether it be manufacturer or merchant, lawyer or laborer.

With the view of still further developing the manifold services of the Chamber of Commerce, an organization of between 100 and 200 public spirited men and women of New Castle will engage next week in selling New Castle to New Castle, beginning with a get-together dinner at the Castleton hotel Tuesday evening at 6:30. At that time the expansion program of the chamber will be outlined in detail so that those engaged in this community service may become thoroughly conversant with the intricate workings of that business building body.

Kitten Born With Three Legs, And No Tail, In City

Misfit Young Feline Also Has But Four Toes On Two Hind Paws

With its left front leg and tail missing, and only four toes on its two hind paws, Triad, one of two kittens born to a cat owned by A. S. Rowan of Franklin avenue, had excited considerable curiosity in the East Side neighborhood.

The mother cat, which was formerly owned by J. C. Hanrahan of Franklin avenue, is a bob-tailed cat. Despite its infirmities, the kitten is a lively little creature at the age of three weeks and does not seem to mind the fact that it has but one leg in front.

Finance Director Albert Hoyland is compiling a report of revenues and expenditures and within the next few days colleagues will be given a copy of the report. According to Hoyland's statement, uttered in open council session, the expenditures this year exceed those of last year and in his report he will advise colleagues to be not buying anything not absolutely necessary.

Within a short time four or five men will be employed to repair the concrete on the tanks at the disposal plant, according to council. The request to employ the men were given by Engineer Hoskins yesterday who stated that while the severe cold spell of the past winter may have had something to do with the condition of the tanks the fact remains, in his opinion, that the concrete work done when the plant was constructed was not of the highest type. The man who will have charge of the work will be paid $5.00 a day.

Fire Chief Claire Stockman has reported to council he has investigated a property at 213-215 South Jefferson street. His report declares the property is in a dilapidated condition and should be repaired or removed. Council, acting up the motion of Safety Director Davies will view the property June 19. The property at East Washington St. and Pearson St. said to be owned by R. C. McKinley et al. has been viewed and found to be a public nuisance, according to council who has decreed it be put in good condition or will be removed by the city at the expense of the property owner.

Persons who plan to attend the dinner of the State Planners at the Field Club, Monday evening should lose no time telephoning for reservations to City Engineer Hary Hoskins, who has been appointed as the chairman on the committee of arrangements. It is anticipated that everyone who is in a position to attend the banquet and favors city planning will attend the affair. Visitors from many cities in the state will arrive here Sunday night and Monday morning. Headquarters have been opened at The Castleton City stenographers and other attaches of City Hall will be on the job at the hotel to help the registration of delegates.

Several hundred persons registered at the City toolhouse, Croton Avenue, for work on the city streets. They are the persons who owe back taxes for 1931, 1932 and 1933. The registration was conducted by Chas. O'Brien and Neil Williams. The order in which the men registered will have no bearing on the turn in which they will be called to work to help resurface streets and alleys.

'Spanish Swindle' Breaks Out Anew

Residents Report Fraud Mail To Post Office; Residents Warned

The familiar, old "Spanish swindle" so well known to United States postal authorities, has made a fresh appearance in letters reaching New Castle residents, Acting Postmaster Richard A. Steen said today.

The "Spanish swindle," in short, is a big-league fraud conducted through the mails from far away Spain or some other country. Residents were warned to be on their alert for the letters.

The letters carrying a golden financial offer to residents here are reported at the post office every now and then. The proper disposition is to take them to the office. The post office here has also detected a number of other alleged local communications within the past few days.
